PE lessons made more fun for primary school pupils

The school experience is made so much more fun for primary school pupils with the introduction of structured games during lessons.

When first introduced, pupils were given a choice of structured games during lessons. This was to ensure that the lessons were fun and engaging for all pupils. The school also provided resources and support for teachers to ensure the quality of physical education.

With the introduction of structured games, pupils are now more engaged in their lessons and are learning to work in a team. This is a valuable skill that will help them in their future careers.

Why kids shouldn't have to audition for CCAs

My son was turned down by three CCAs. Today he is a football captain. It is a good feeling to see a child who was once a shy and nervous underdog become a team leader.

Education should not be a competition. It should be a journey of learning and growth. Children should not be forced to audition for CCAs. They should be given the opportunity to try out for different activities and find their own path.

When I was a child, I was very shy and nervous. I was often the last to be chosen for a team. But when I was given the chance to try out for football, I discovered that I had a talent for it. I became a team captain and I am now a football player. This experience taught me that I am capable of more than I thought I was.
